Workplace Architecture + Design embarked on a comprehensive approach by proposing a meticulously crafted two-phase design process, strategically tailored to align with Carpigiani's vision, culture, and project objectives. Phase One - Condensed Programming and Construction Documents, prioritized the development and refinement of plans for the office and warehouse office space. This phase served as the foundation, laying the groundwork for subsequent stages. Through intensive collaboration and iterative refinement, the design team synthesized Carpigiani's aspirations, operational requirements, and aesthetic preferences into tangible architectural blueprints and construction documents.

Workplace Architecture + Design facilitated a holistic exploration and realization of Carpigiani's objectives, fostering a cohesive and harmonious integration of design, functionality, and corporate identity within the built environment.
