Workplace Architecture + Design (Workplace A+D) embarked on a transformative journey with the Tanglewood Crossing retail store, revolutionizing it into a prototype design for future locations. The endeavor was structured into two planned phases. Phase One commenced with the creation of a comprehensive 3D store model, accompanied by preliminary design concepts and renderings. This initial phase laid the foundation for Phase Two, which involved the meticulous translation of approved designs into permit documents for construction, coupled with providing invaluable assistance in construction contract administration.

The success of this process not only revitalized the Tanglewood Crossing store but also forged a lasting partnership between Workplace A+D and Zirus. The exemplary collaboration has since led to the inception of numerous other projects, marking the inception of a fruitful and enduring relationship between the parties involved.
